LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

KATHARINE'S plan was a complete success Faith was completely "sold" on the proposition of staying away from the formal Veritzen luncheon and playing nurse to her grandmother

But I saw that she could not dismiss the subject as settled The little girl was so excited by her ready masquerade that she wanted to dicuss it further

"You know, she said, looking around the room with a judicial air, "this looks to me like a very good place to have a conference don't you think so Doctor?"

After all her imitation of adult language so nothing in which she always has been somewhat uncanny was so visible provoking that for a second the sounds in the room were those of choking coughs Katharine was positive however was not disturbed

"Do you know, Faith she said with a serious air I'm afraid we're going to have more patients They'll appear to have bad colds even the doctor"

She impaled her husband with an accusing gaze and he took his interference from his face and made hasty explanations

"I'm sure it's a cold" he said "I checked his pulse this morning—I guess too much on my eggs and I've been taking off a bit nevertheless But I'll wear off I am sure However —he looked at Dicky and me— these people may need prescriptions

"Now I could say so you Dicky old man

Airy Retort

No doubt I did Jack retorted airily But I'll postpone my —prescription do you call what you're telling a patient—

Appreciatively Dicky giggled But Faith did not respond to the repartee she began giving her recently acquired professional

"Adhesive tape" was proclaimed triumphantly

"Near enough" Jack said while Dicky ironically repressed another cough

"But I'll postpone your examinations until you're free from the luncheon if Faith and I think best I shall prefer you to be!

"I'm sure you won't have to do that Katharine interposed hastily "I know child" she had caught the excited gloom in Faith's eyes But I agree with you Faith that this room would be perfect if at any time you and the doctor have to have a conference now don't you think we'd better go over to Grandie's apartment, and relieve Cousin Mary?

Smooths Down Uniform

Oh boy Faith exclaimed forgetting her newly found dignity Then she remembered and smoothed down her uniform primly

Yes I think that would be best she said

But I had an idea which I wished to thrust into the thwarts

Wouldn't it be a good idea for you to take the new nurse over and let her confer with Mary—in whispers—for a few minutes? I asked Katharine She will want to find out what Mary has done for the patient and I think I really would like to have you and Jack look at Dicky's throat before he goes to the luncheon, instead of afterward

I threw my husband a signalling glance and he promptly played up

"Yes he said that might be a good idea I certainly don't want to cough and choke at the luncheon table You might prescribe some lozenges—or some Scotch or something But remember Doctor he added with mischief in his eyes you don't need any medicine You said yourself you had choked on some salt

Will Come Back

Of all the crustaceans on the beach! Jack told him But Katharine and I will come back for a few minutes once we've installed the new nurse in the next room Don't you agree Katharine?

Of course she said for she knew that we were agog with curiosity as to how she had managed the nurse's costume and was willing to satisfy it as long as her patient was asleep and needed no attention

But I knew that I had something to tell her about Mary's prospective ordeal at the luncheon—I felt that I needed her wise counsel—and I was glad when Faith at a signal from Katharine drew herself up salute her father and me instead of kissing us and walked proudly out of the room chanting a subdued little poem to herself

"I'm a really truly nurse she intoned I'm going to take care of Grandie and make her well

Roosevelt Is Still Making Big News Year After Death

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 8—Franklin Delano Roosevelt died a year ago this week, but his name and policies still are the subject of hot political oratory.

Debate about the late President breaks out frequently in congress, and political leaders said today they expect his program to be an issue in the coming elections.

House Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts contended that Republicans already have injected Mr. Roosevelt's name into the campaign by "trying to smear him" in the investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Republicans hotly denied this. Reps. Keefe (R-Wis) and Gearhart (R-Calif), members of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee which reopens its public hearings briefly tomorrow, asserted their only desire is to tell the whole story of the sneak Japanese attack.

Some Republican leaders, who asked not to be named, said that while many of their campaign speakers undoubtedly will assail the administrations of both Mr. Truman and Mr. Roosevelt, party members are being urged to concentrate their fire on Mr. Truman.

One ranking Republican said the Democrats will be the ones to bring up Mr. Roosevelt's name most frequently.

"A lot of Democratic congressmen would like to ride into office on his coattails again," he asserted.

Tomorrow's reopening of the Pearl Harbor hearings was ordered to hear additional testimony from Adm. John A. Beardall, naval aide to Mr. Roosevelt, and Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations at the time of the disaster.

MANY INJURED IN AMMUNITION BLAST

By The Associated Press

SAIGON, April 8 — A giant French ammunition dump on the northern outskirts of Saigon exploded this morning and two hours later a shattering series of explosions continued to rock the city.

The French army threw barricades around the danger zone and began the evacuation of all civilians.

Truckloads of wounded, including women, children and French servicemen were still streaming into the hospitals at noon.

More than 60 wounded persons officially were reported admitted to hospitals in the half hour following the first blast at 10:30 a. m. Hospital officials said they lost count after that.

Henri Cedille, commissioner for Cochin China, issued a special communique saying that the explosion was due to an accident and requested the public to remain calm.

Refugees from within the explosion area said that scores of houses had been demolished by the repeated blasts. The public was in a state of near panic and roads were crowded with refugees leaving town.

Bandages have also been made for the New Guinea mission field. Following the meeting, fruit baskets were filled for the sick and aged people of the church. Guests were Miss Mary Elizabeth Bilger, Mrs. Anna Lust, Mrs. Reed Fetter, and Misses Peggy Fetter and Janet Laucher. MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 8—Mrs. Stanley W. Emitt of Tallmadge advocates higher pay on a 12-month salary basis as a means of alleviating Ohio's school teacher shortage. The president of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers made the suggestion in yesterday's Columbus town meeting of the air. State education department officials estimate Ohio will be short some 2,000 teachers this fall.

UN Facing Fresh Crisis in Attack On Franco Spain

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst

It looks very much as though the status of the Franco government in Spain may provide another crisis with which the United Nations Security council will have to struggle.

This is a delicate and vastly important situation and one which involves a further divergence of view among the Big Three—Russia on the one side and the western allies on the other. It's an embarrassing baby to be left on the council doorstep.

DewittMackenzie

If the Spanish issue were one of those things which gave promise of solving itself, it might be discreet to let it slide. But fresh pressure for action against Generalissimo Franco is developing from eastern Europe in Russia and France, from those who insist that his regime is a menace to international peace. The United States and Britain, while turning thumbs down on the Falangist government, don't subscribe to the thesis that it threatens peace.

Poland Takes Lead

The latest development is Poland's decision to sever diplomatic relations with Spain. Rumania already had made that move last Friday. From the Polish embassy in London also came the statement that Poland would raise the matter in the security council and call on the other United Nations to break relations with Madrid.

Meantime, of course, the Spanish Republican government which is in exile in friendly France, under the presidency of Jose Giral, is waiting for fortune to give it the open sesame that will crash the gates of the Spanish capital. This represents the leftist government which Franco overthrew in the frightful civil war of 1936-39.

The Spanish issue poses three far-reaching questions for the security council to answer—questions which will be fundamental in determining the long-range policy of the United Nations.

Main Issues

There are:

1. Does Franco's Fascist government—or any similar regime represent a menace to international peace.

2. If the Franco regime is a menace to peace, what action shall be taken by the United Nations.

3. If it isn't inimical to peace, how far shall the United Nations go in dictating what form of government Spain — or any other country—shall or shall not have.

It's important to note that Franco's government isn't the only one in the world which might be challenged as not fulfulling the ideals of the United Nations. This fact will have to be taken into consideration in establishing a precedent in the case of Spain.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDENSEN, M.D.

Pain in Children

Causes of abnormal pain in children are many and varied.

At one time, such pain may be due to nothing more serious than a little digestive upset. Again, it may signal the onset of appendicitis. Another common cause, according to Doctor Ian Aird of Edinburgh, Scotland, is an inflammation of certain lymph glands within the abdomen, known as the mesenteric lymph glands.

To an untrained observer, one of these troubles might appear outwardly very much like another. To treat one for another, however, would be disastrous. Therefore, parents are warned that in cases of abnormal pain in children, physician should be called.

In mesenteric lymphadenitis, the lymph glands become inflamed at first; then white and soft and, finally, hard and red. There is also some congestion of blood in the small intestine and occasionally in the appendix. The entire bowel wall may become swollen or edematous. A sore throat or similar infection may precede the attack of mesenteric lymphadenitis.

The most important symptom of mesenteric lymphadenitis, is severe colicky pain. The pain comes in spasms, and between spasms the child is comfortable but, even during a violent attack, may move about freely. The pain is most severe in the lower right part of the abdomen. Sickness to the stomach and vomiting frequently occur.

The temperature rises to about 101 degrees and there is also an increase in the number of white cells in the blood. There is often some rigidity or stiffness of the muscles, but this is not as noticeable as in appendicitis. The character of the pain also seems to differ from that produced by appendicitis, so that the two disorders can usually be told apart.

A tuberculous infection of the lymph glands in the abdomen may also occur. However, in tuberculosis, there is usually no increase in the number of white cells in the blood. The abdominal muscles are relaxed and pain and discomfort persist between attacks.

Children with mesenteric lymphadenitis, as a rule, are apparently healthy and completely comfortable between attacks.

Dr. Aird believes that mesenteric lymphadenitis may be due to a virus, that is, an organism so small that it can pass through the openings in a porcelain filter. The virus is brought to the glands by passing through the walls of the intestine into the lymph channels.

The fact that a respiratory infection, such as a cold or sore throat, often precedes the attack, favors the theory that the condition is produced by a virus, since these infections are also thought to be caused by viruses.

No treatment has been found which will keep the attacks from recurring. However, operation and removal of the gland should not be done, according to Dr. Aird, since, as time passes, the condition tends to clear up completely and no further attacks occur.

The important thing about mesenteric lymphadenitis is that its symptoms are like those of appendicitis and care must be taken not to mistake one for the other. The parents must remember two important things: Have a physician examine your child, and give no laxative or cathartics.

How Long Will SOAP SHORTAGES LAST?

ON THE GLOOMY SIDE

There are not nearly enough fats in the country to make all the soaps, soap powders, and soap flakes you want. So short is the supply, the government must decide how much fat can be released to make soap and other peacetime goods.

Besides, the supplies of soaps many of you housewives have had in reserve are running low — and the demand for soaps is increasing.

ON THE BRIGHT SIDE

When the Ounce of Prevention Fails

★ Warning against accidents in the home and on the highways is old stuff to most of us. Many industries have made real progress in accident prevention, but our homes continue to produce minor and major injuries on an ever-increasing scale.

In spite of every precaution, accidents will occur. When the "ounce of prevention" fails, it is wise to have "the pound of cure" ready and at hand. See that your medicine cabinet is amply stocked with standard first-aid materials. Keep a first-aid kit in the pocket of your car. We shall be pleased to help you select the essential items from our complete stock.

No Mirrors, Just Facts

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S foreign policy address at Chicago Saturday afternoon in observance of Army day achieved distinction by concentrating on important facts behind foreign policy. Usually, foreign policy is discussed as a fancy theory—a kind of academic question.

As Mr. Truman discussed it Saturday, however, foreign policy is nothing more remote or academic than the integrity of American government, the determination of Americans to avert further wars, the necessity of common-sense financial arrangements, reasonable military security, and a decent regard for international commitments.

Perhaps he oversimplified it. Foreign policy is traditionally the proving ground for adroit minds that can play both ends against the middle and outwit the opposition. In the United States there has been an insistent demand for a foreign policy, as if a foreign policy meant some strange, new formula. Mr. Truman's answer to that is that the United States is opposed to strong-arming weak nations, intends to put its faith in the United Nations and keep its powder dry and needs to remember that security cannot be guaranteed by resolution. This government must be prepared "to assume leadership and accept responsibility." That is part of its responsibility as a major power in the United Nations.

Specifically, the Selective Service Act must be continued, military training must be adopted and the armed services coordinated. These are not, as Mr. Truman knows, popular causes. Americans do not want to believe at this particular instant in history that foreign policy demands anything from them but their polite attention. Nevertheless, Mr. Truman has told them otherwise, which is his duty. His stature grows. What happens to the stature of those who disregard him is not in this instance Mr. Truman's business. His business is to tell his countrymen what he knows they know should be done but don't want to do because they are tired of worrying about America's responsibility as a world power.

Troubled Waters on the Oil

IT IS not a shock to realize that oil was at the bottom of international tension over relations among the Soviet Union, Iran and the other United Nations. Oil is one of the prime necessities of modern life.

What is shocking is to realize that here is an issue which millions have discussed for many days in terms of principles when they should have been discussing it in terms of fuel for internal combustion engines.

Perhaps if the discussion had proceeded long enough in the United Nations security council, the right words would have come into it. The peace-makers, blessed men, would have quit pouring oil on the troubled waters and begun to pour the troubled waters on the oil.

It is significant that as soon as Iran saw light on the oil concessions Russia wanted—or as soon as someone saw light—the troubled waters, oil, tempers, outraged feelings and international tensions all subsided. The next time these things occur, cherchez le oile, as they do not say in France, and things may be much clearer.

They Over-reached Themselves

THE FIRST anniversary of Franklin D. Roosevelt's death will produce a spate of appraisals, some of Mr. Truman's performance in the presidential office, some of Mr. Roosevelt after the addition of one year's perspective on his career in public life.

There needs to be, also, one more appraisal. It is of the wisdom of the party chiefs who, knowing that Mr. Roosevelt probably would not live to the end of the fourth term he was too ill to be seeking, nevertheless gave him the nomination of the Democratic party. They over-reached themselves.

The record is still obscure, but the fierceness of the fight the party's vice presidential nomination in 1944 obviously reflected the conviction of insiders that the nominee would become chief executive before 1948, if elected. Mr. Truman was selected because he was believed to stand somewhere between the dissident factions that would be at each other's throats as soon as Mr. Roosevelt's power to muster votes ceased to be the means of holding them at bay. The result is what we are having now—a government with no majority, no convictions other than those inherited from a political movement that had run its course before the war, and no support but the dwindling momentum of its predecessor's going-concern value at the climax of a war in whose direction it claimed to be indispensable.

At the end of Mr. Truman's first year the first signs of his administration's impotency have appeared. It is the legacy of one of the most fateful decisions ever made by the chiefs of a political organization. Or, to be fair to them, it is the legacy of Mr. Roosevelt's own decision to seek a fourth term when he must have been having grave doubts of his ability to live out his third term. His retirement from politics at the limit of his physical ability to serve would have spared the United States some extremely serious confusion in its public affairs. It will be two years from next January before the country will have a chief executive of its own choosing.

News Behind the News

Administration's Production Story Not All True.

WASHINGTON, April 8—Mr. Truman and his reconverter John Snyder have been bragging that the "production of civilian goods and services" has reached the peak of all time. They want to prove by some unexplained generalized figures on income and dollar volume that production has been more than restored and reconversion accomplished.

Taint so. There are tricks in it, to wit:

A foremost weekly index of actual production from a governmental source places our output for the week ending March 23 at 121 compared with 143 a year ago and about 127 for 1941. Miscellaneous car loadings are less than a year ago, as are steel, electric power and lumber production, but "other car loadings" and paperboard production are above a year ago.

Messrs Truman and Snyder did not tabulate actual volume of production but only dollar volumes and income, and they made no allowances for price increases. Furthermore, they said only that "civilian" production was at all time peak. There is no way of telling how much of the above-cited production is still Army, Navy and Marine, but a portion must be. So the discrepancy is somewhat greater than the figures indicate.

Story of Producers

Producers themselves tell me the situation is bad. Ford publicly closed his plant for a week the very day the President spoke, because he could not keep enough steel on hand to warrant continuous operations. Every producer has that same trouble in one way or another. Manufacturers cannot get little things. An air conditioning maker finds his particular kind of steel for certain parts difficult to obtain because the steel companies will not manufacture much of it saying they lose $15 a ton on it because of the OPA ceiling. The steel companies are producing other more profitable lines. Then the air conditioning man finds for a time he cannot get motors, finds a shortage of bearings due to strikes, cannot get production of a special copper bolt which is essential. His production line operates off again, on again, off again—and the doctors are operating on the manufacturer.

As far as "civilian services" are concerned, there are not any restored around here. Cleaners require 3 to 6 weeks to clean a suit, skirtmakers and many other lines inform their customers flatly: "We are not taking any more orders." They will not even consider delivery months hence. Parts for auto repairs are unavailable throughout the United States in some vital cases. A tailor took an order for a suit the first of last November and gave the first fitting at the end of March—five months later. He will not promise the suit by summer. Some outfitters are already stopping orders for summer suits — imagine it, next summer's suits. Meat supplies in Washington are getting bad again, only inferior grades of a few lines having been available the past few weeks.

No Autos, No Coal

There are no autos, coal, refrigerators, nylons and only a few radios. A considerable (say 10 to 15 per cent) improvement in sales-stocks can be noted in many lines, and a bare beginning toward restoration is noticeable. The experience of the average citizen in these parts will strictly deny, however, any claim that production has been restored in "civilian services."

Now there has been a great acceleration in dollar volume of production in such lines as liquor (but not good liquor), department store sales and some particular food products, and these no doubt caused Mr. Snyder's figures to swell to the conclusions he induced the President to make from them.

But if you figure a 25 to 50 per cent increase in such items (I have noticed in my purchases price increases as high as 400 per cent) even the visible results of greater production in restricted lines do not loom formidably when compared with the job of sizing the production bottleneck up to demand. As measured with demand, we cannot yet begin to speak of "production."

But if civilian goods and services are at all time peak and going higher in the next few months to satisfy demands, then, Mr. Truman will not need his OPA regulations much beyond June 30, the date at which they are scheduled to expire. If the shortages continue, and no fulfilling relaxation of them is yet discernible here, OPA will be needed for many a month and perhaps another year or more.

WHAT,
NO FIZZ-IOLOGY?

The Ice Cream Merchandising Institute announces plans to set up a special school to train young career men in "the science and art" of jerking soda.

Only its graduates—and the institute is quite firm about this—will be deferentially referred to, not as soda jerks, but soda dispensers . . . as though a soda jerk by any other named didn't smell of root beer and vanilla.

At any rate, a new institution will shortly make its appearance on the educational scene Carbonated U.

Thus the soda fountain of tomorrow will be presided over by a graduate technician, a man with a Phi Beta Frappe key on his watch chain, one who proudly boasts the degree BSD—Bachelor of Soda Dispensary.

In addition to such basic classes as glass rinsing and ice cream dipping, there will doubtless be advanced courses in such selective subjects as parfaits and banana splits, for those who wish to specialize.

Sanitation will be taught, declares the prospectus, along with tact and diplomacy. Also indicated is a language seminar, conducted by a visiting tobacco auctioneer, to aid the under-graduate in getting just the right degree of indistinguishability in his enumeration of the sixteen flavors.

Plus, of course, a dramatic school so that graduates may register the proper disdain when, having queried the customer: "Large or small?" the answer comes back, "Small."

Lazy Man's Way To Farm

South Changes Custom To Increase Profits.

By HENRY LESESNE

AUBURN, Ala. — Call it, if you will, a lazy man's way of farming, but the south has turned from its one-crop economy to livestock production by using lines of least resistance.

The formula is simple: You buy up non-productive, worn out land at a few dollars an acre. You don't do any work, yet you build up the land and at the same time net $16 a year on every acre — and it's done with cattle without buying corn. The cattle simply graze.

A demonstration now in progress at the Auburn experimental station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute is especially adapted to the south, but J. C. Grimes, head animal husbandman says it could be modified for use elsewhere.

Ten acres support four cows with two and a half acres allotted per cow. Of the acres-per-cow, one acre of lespedeza is grazed from April to October or November; one acre of kudzu affords temporary grazing and winter feed; a half-acre of manganese bur clover is followed by grain sorghum for winter feed.

All of the crops are soil-improving legumes, except the grain sorghum, which is the only one requiring cultivation.

The calves are dropped in the fall, weaned in July, fed three pounds of cottonseed meal per head daily for 60 days, and then sold.

Netting $16 Per Acre

How does the $16 an acre come in? Last year $22 an acre was realized from the sale of cattle. Six dollars was spent for fertilizer and the cottonseed meal.

However, economists point to great obstacles to be overcome before the south ever can compete with the midwest in livestock production.

High prices have been only one factor in the growth of the southern livestock industry. Stock improvement, development of millions of acres of improved pastureland and creation of local markets have been others.

To get an idea of what is happening, consider a state like Alabama. While learning to produce the same amount of cotton on half the acreage it has in five years expanded its livestock industry from $26,000,000 to $80,000,000 a year.

Or take Georgia. Two decades ago, points out Kenneth Treanor, extension service economist, cotton contributed 46 per cent to the farm income, and livestock only 10. Today each contributes 21 per cent.

Elsewhere in the South it is pretty much the same story: more cotton on less acreage, increased livestock production. In Georgia, E. C. Westbrook estimates Georgia cotton growers got an extra $20,000,000 last year through improved cotton culture.

The big question in livestock expansion in the south is feed. The south can produce an abundance of protein concentrates, but the yield of grain crops—carbohydrates—is far below the national average.

Roughly, corn production in the south is ten bushels an acre. This compares with about 38 in Iowa.

Sweet Potatoes as Feed

The south's climate and soil do yield sweet potatoes abundantly, however. It can produce in sweet potatoes the equivalent of 25 bushels of corn an acre. Sweet potatoes furnish protein. Dehydration of sweet potatoes into feed is going on in some places.

Agriculturalists still argue about dehydrated sweet potatoes, however. Some say production of sweet potatoes requires far too many hours of hand labor compared with corn. They say, too, dehydration costs must be lowered.

Experiments are under way to develop machines for mechanizing sweet potato production and this may provide the answer, they say.

Just growing in popularity in the south—as a supplement to corn—are grain sorghums, hitherto grown in semi-arid areas of the west.

BERN—A series of earth tremors in Switzerland left various repercussions.

City engineers of Sitten (Sion) reported that the Lienne brook had doubled its flow of water, increasing the stream's capacity to produce sorely-needed electricity.

At Lausanne, residents were not so pleased. The source of the city drinking water was in springs situated where there were vast amounts of lime sulphates. After the quake the water took on a milky hue from the lime deposits.

Trieste Problem Explosive

Experts Have Tricky Job in Setting Boundary.

LONDON—The experts charged with the task of reporting on the boundary demarkation between Italy and Yugoslavia face a potentially explosive problem in the future of Trieste.

Sections of the British press already are referring to this northeastern Adriatic seaport as another Danzig, heavily charged with political dynamite capable of being touched off momentarily by accident or design.

The four-man commission, M. Wolfrom, France, M. Gernshchenko, U. S. S. R., C. H. M. Waldock, Britain, and Dr. P. E. Mosley, United States, has been directed by deputies to the Council of Foreign Ministers to consider the boundary problem in all aspects. These include the ethnic consideration of leaving a minimum of the population under alien domination along with special economic and geographical features.

Jigsaw Puzzle

All other factors threatened to become submerged in the overshadowing struggle for Trieste, a prime piece in the jigsaw puzzle of delineating frontiers that are economically sound yet respect racial origins.

Russia would like to have control of Trieste as a warm water outlet from her southwest and has already put out broad feelers expressing the hope of being entrusted with the port area's administration.

Yugoslavia demands Trieste by right of conquest and in the nature of reparations from Italy.

Among the powers framing the peace with Italy there is a strong leaning towards letting Italy retain Trieste to assist her economic recovery with which the whole economic future of south eastern Europe is considered inseparably bound.

Recently, Lord Vansittart declared in the House of Lords: "I would not contemplate robbing Italy of Trieste." In saying so, he voiced the opinion of a large section of Britain.

Yugoslavia's demands for Trieste as the spoils of victory suffered a setback from Field Marshall Alexander's ultimatum which compelled Marshall Tito to evacuate, very unwillingly. Trieste and part of Venezia Giulia. This is territory to which Yugoslavs feel entitled because they fought for it.

Outright Yugoslav agitation for Trieste has increased since that time.

An official Yugoslav statement placed the Italian destruction and looting in Yugoslavia during the war at the equivalent of over a billion dollars, exclusive of claims for loss of life and the financial loss incurred through the shrinkage of national income during the hostilities.

Reinforce Army

The demand is now that Italy should repay Yugoslavia in full and Trieste, apparently, is favorably regarded as logical currency for partial recompense.

Adding to the under-like nature of the situation are substantially based reports the Yugoslavs are reinforcing their army along the frontier, ostensibly to counter the threat of General Anders' Polish army which, they claim, has been moved as far north and east as Undine.

It was this alleged encroachment of Anders' forces which caused the Russian - sponsored Yugoslavian protest to UNO's Security Council on the grounds it threatened Yugoslavia's security.

Some London newspapers voice the Yugoslavs might provoke some "incidents" in Trieste and then rush in their troops under the excuse of protecting their nationals against 'Fascist oppression." At any rate, the Yugoslavs have been making much of their claims that anti-Communists have been operating in Anders' army inciting the troops to the struggle against Communism in Yugoslavia.

Reports from Trieste indicate that Yugoslavs living there are not even trying to hide their intention of making Trieste theirs by the end of the year.

With the great prize of Trieste hanging in the balance, its fate subject to the pressure of inimicable interests, the Adriatic port in effect does become a second Danzig, the name of which was synonomous with political trouble in northern Europe for many years.

The President and Horseshoe Pitching

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has decided to build a horseshoe court on the White House grounds. This should make America feel better. Most of the trouble that the world is in today is due to the fact few, if any, rulers have been horseshoe pitchers.

There is something about horseshoe pitching that keeps a man cool, eases his nerves and lessens the chances of his doing anything cockeyed. We had a few horseshoe pitchers among our earliest Presidents, and their Administrations were the most peaceful in history.

Wilson didn't know a horseshoe from a bicycle pedal. Look what happened to us! Hoover was no horseshoe pitcher, hence the depression. Franklin D. Roosevelt at no time in his life was a horseshoe man. He went in for yachts, ship models and stamps. Result: Global war!

Now comes Harry Truman, a horseshoe pitcher from away back; a man who knows horseshoes inside out; a leader who can handle a horseshoe with some of the ease, determination and skill of our forefathers.

Perhaps in these troubled times of fratricidal, frenzied disputes, hair-trigger decisions, impatience with the other fellow's viewpoint and inch to settle everything overnight, horseshoe pitching may save civilization!

You never saw a horseshoe pitcher leaping wildly into a microphone and denouncing people at random. You never noticed a horseshoe man quitting an important meeting in a huff. You never knew a horseshoe tosser who wasn't human, tolerant and peaceful.

Had Adolf Hitler ever gone in for pitching horseshoes the yen to conquer the world would never have developed. In your wildest dreams can you picture Mussolini fooling around with a horseshoe?

On with the horseshoe stuff, Harry! You're no genius in statesmanship. You are not the wisest ruler of the day. But nevertheless when the atomic bomb crisis agitates the great men of the earth, when potentates on all sides are shouting at one another and when so many big men have so many hot ideas for causing trouble it will be good to know that you spend a little time each day out behind the White House pitching horseshoes.

CIRCUS MEMORIES

The circus is in Gotham, and thousands of big city kids will be thrilled no end. But we pity the kid who never knew the circus in a small town. Back home in our boyhood it was the event of the year. The first flush of posters on the billboards kindled our imagination . . . we were sleepless for nights before the great day . . . and we were up at 3:30 a. m. the morning the big show arrived. . . . It always unloaded in the freight yards down at Long Wharf on Water Street, and what a thrill it was to hear the locomotive whistles and then see the circus trains pull in, unload and start on the five-mile trek to the circus grounds, which used to be the Elm City Park back of the Hubinger mansion.

After the unloading had progressed an hour or so we hustled to the grounds to see the tents go up. . . . The rat-tat-tat of the stake-driving crews . . . the rumble of the wagon wheels . . . the smell of tanbark and hay . . . the odor of lamb chops and boiled potatoes from the cooktent . . . oh, boy! We generally managed to get a job leading a pony in a parade and get a free pass to the show.

BROADWAY TRIUMPH

Edward Sheldon is dead. Sightless for years . . . yet with a clearness of vision that many Broadway seers blind as a bat. . . . Crippled, but covering distances beyond the reach of a thousand show men, and leaping among the stars while they crawled earthbound. . . . In ceaseless pain . . . yet complaining less in a year over tragic misfortunes than the luckiest Broadway lily squawks in a single hour over a minor case of annoyance. . . . Housebound, yet with a spirit, heart and mind that scaled heights so far beyond the reach of the alert and the unchained as to make their progress like that of the mole beside the eagle! . . .

Well, President Truman will have a hard time if he tries to tell anybody that the emptiness in the coal hod is just a bulge.

It's Embarrassing

By Truman Twill

SHAME on the English war brides who have taken a good look at the natives of America and wondered how their husbands ever managed to rise above the common herd.

Shame on these girls for noticing that the towns and cities of the United States are dirty, trashy areas of congestion, built mostly without plan and only rarely with any attention to convenience.

Shame on them for noticing that the world-famed Yankee moola, the old wherewithal, the green goods, the lettuce, the folding money, the American standard of living, is being hammered down by inflation and that a $3,000-year income doesn't mean a thing if it costs $3,500 to pay off the tradesmen and hired help.

Shame on these brides for wondering why the good and kind Americans, who pride themselves on being friendly as pups and on making themselves at home anywhere, also seem to have borrowed so many of their public manners from dogs—not thoroughbreds, but alley mutts.

Shame on these girls who may have ever dodging rockets not long ago for wondering why hit Americans to destroy our sense of consideration for the old and the infirm; for quest on the efficiency of transportation that jams everybody aboard and disregarding the ordinary rights of the paying customer.

Shame on them for thinking that community neatness and courtesy are fully as important as individual neatness and courtesy; that overcharging is one of the great American customs not mentioned in Chamber of Commerce blurbs; that America the beautiful has a tough time rising above spoilers who aim to muck up the landscape 24 hours a day; and that things are in fine shape when a married couple have to be in the bucks before they can think about having a baby.

Shame on them for seeing a lot of things about this country they weren't supposed to see. They were supposed to keep looking at ice cream, Clark Gable, models of refrigerators that will be obtainable as soon as the labor czars give manufacturers thumbs up, new automobiles that are off the assembly lines at inflated prices and pictures of dream houses that will have to stay that way because no one can build them.

They were supposed to be bowled over by central heating, air-conditioning, baseball, recollections of what things were like when people ate butter, soap operas and singing commercials on the radio, the distance from one place to another and American dentistry.

If these girls are going to snoop around and find things they weren't supposed to know about they won't be visitors any more. They'll be members of the family, helping to hold shut the closet door to keep the skeletons from falling out. Heave ho, girls, there's work for all of us!

TRUMAN STIRS FRESH STRIFE

New Call for Longer Draft, Merger and Training Splits Congress.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 8—President Truman's firm insistence on draft extension, Army-Navy merger and universal training plunged lawmakers today into fresh controversy that cut sharply across party lines.

The Chief Executive emphasized in his Chicago Army Day speech Saturday that he wants selective service continued for a year, desires the military forces consolidated in one department and is just as strong as ever for a peacetime training program which he insisted would not involve "conscription."

Some See Delay

But in some senate quarters his declaration that a necessary Army of many men "can be continuously and adequately supplied for another year only by the Selective Service act" was interpreted as paving the way for congressional delay on training legislation.

Senator Bridges (R-NH), a member of the military committee, told a reporter he doesn't see how any training system could be set up as long as the draft continues.

Bridges indicated also there may be organized opposition to any speedy action by the military committee on proposed legislation to unify the armed forces. The committee will take up the question tomorrow.

At the same time the house military committee will attempt to reach a showdown on a proposal to continue draft registrations for a year but prevent the induction of any men under its terms.

Bridges said he and others on the senate group may ask a searching inquiry into the proposal to put Army, Navy and Air under one cabinet chief, a unification plan that Mr. Truman promised "does not mean subordination of any branch of the service."

3-Way Foundation

In calling anew for extension of selective service, for merger and for peacetime training, Mr. Truman said they are the foundation stones of a strong nation which the United States must remain.

"We cannot on one hand proclaim our intention to prevent unjust aggression and oppression in the world," he insisted, "and on the next day call for immediate scrapping of our military might."

The Chief Executive said it was easy to see how the near and middle east might become an arena of intense rivalry between outside powers which "might suddenly erupt into conflict."

The President, Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, returned to Washington yesterday by special train.

Reunion in Athens Brings Memories To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

ATHENS, April 8 — A man knocked on my hotel door and for a half hour gave me back my faraway childhood.

When he first came in, he stood there sharing with me that lost helpless feeling two people have when they meet and have no sense of recognition and yet feel they should know one another.

He was a middle-aged man of medium height and prematurely white hair. He had a slight, dark moustache. His face wore an air of puzzlement.

Hal Boyle

In his hands he held a cable from his son in Missouri saying I was in Athens and was an old acquaintance and he should look me up.

I looked uncertainly at Charley Roumes across the space of my small hotel room and he looked back at me—and the space between us was bigger than any hotel room.

Memory Returns

"I lived almost 25 years in America," he said hesitantly.

"Where, Charley?"

"In Kansas City — I had a restaurant with my partner at 31st street and Woodland."

That broke the dike of memory. Each city boy's life is built around a street corner just as oases are social centers of deserts—and for more than a decade in springtime of my life 31st and Woodland in Kansas City, Mo., was the capital of my world.

"I remember you now, Charley," I said.

He said he recalled me too, but I doubt it because there was no reason he should. Charley and his partner, Mike Ventros, used to operate "a Colonial Lunch" when I used to stand on that corner almost 25 years ago.

Mike is still in Kansas City. Charley who emigrated to America from Arcady in 1907 at the age of 15 returned to Greece in 1931.

"Business was slow, and I thought it was the best time to come back for a visit," he said.

Nazis Take Business

His wife fell ill, and he has been in Athens ever since. When the Germans came in they took over Charley's small restaurant here, and since then he has traveled a rocky road.

His savings have melted slowly. "America is the only land," he said when I took him out to lunch two days later. During the war he used to risk the death penalty by tuning his radio to the American station at Algiers to listen to big league baseball scores and speeches by President Roosevelt, often staying up until 3 a. m. to get programs.

U. S. Seeks Pensions Paid to Dead Man

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 8—A suit to recover $11,925 which the government paid out in pension checks to a man dead 12 years was on file in federal court today.

The Cleveland Trust Co. was named defendant. The complaint charged the bank cashed 121 checks made out to John H. Allison between his death March 3, 1931, and the February 28, 1943, and in each case collected the amount from the U. S.

On the later date the government discovered that Allison's daughter, Mrs. Nellie E. Fearing of Cleveland Heights, had been forging her father's name to the checks before cashing them.

Mrs. Fearing was given probation on a federal forgery charge June 14, 1944.

Assistant U. S. district attorney said the suit is the first to be filed here under a supreme court decision of Jan. 8, 1945, holding the government not negligent in paying out money for checks where banks had guaranteed the indorsement.

Persons not otherwise contacted may mail their contributions in by addressing them to the Jaycee Cancer Drive for 1946, box 132, Marion.

The Junior Chamber is seeking $25,000 during April with 50 per cent of the funds to be used in Marion for research and treatment of cancer. The local campaign is part of a nationwide program.

UNRRA TO FLY FOOD TO STARVING CHINA

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, April 8—Emergency distribution of food by air to China's starving people is being organized by UNRRA in an effort to combat a famine so severe that several millions are reported eating grass, roots, the bark of trees and even clay.

Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, once head of the famed Flying Tigers and former commanding general of the 14th Airforce, disclosed he is forming an air transport unit to fly UNRRA relief to stricken areas. Air transport is necessary because of the difficulties posed by land and sea travel.

UNRRA Field Representative Sidney Bittenberg said famine is so critical, particularly in Honan province, that "children look like old men, with shrunken, emaciated bodies and swollen stomachs."

Among contributing factors in this famine of almost unprecedented intensity are battle devastation, drought, scorched-earth military tactics, floods, locust plagues, lack of fertilizer, shortages of farm implements and farm animals and the demands on food by the Chinese army.

In Honan and Hupeh provinces, some 5,000,000,000 persons are reported close to starvation.

Hitler Private Aide Arrested by Yanks

By The Associated Press

FRANKFURT, April 8 — The American-controlled Dana news agency reported today that Frau Marie-Thekla Weichelt, whom it described as Adolf Hitler's private secretary, had been arrested in Wuerzburg.

Frau Weichelt frequently helped the fuehrer draft his speeches, the agency said.

Dana said that Frau Weichelt was believed by the American counter-intelligence corps to have been close to Hitler "until the surrender," although she said she had been the Nazi leader's secretary only between 1934 and 1938.

She was arrested last Wednesday in Uettingen, near Wuerzburg, by local American investigators and was turned over to the counter-intelligence corps, Dana said. She was said to have disguised her appearance and was living with her parents in seclusion.

FERGUSON SAYS HIS FIRM NOT ILLEGAL

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 8—State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson asserted today he had violated "no state or federal law," by going into business with his own savings.

His statement was in answer to a charge that he was conducting a "truckless trucking business," made last week by former Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, a Republican seeking renomination for that office. Herbert referred to a company which Ferguson had organized to handle surplus war materials.

"Both my private and public records are open for inspection by the legislature or any group of citizens presenting the proper credentials," Ferguson said.

Ferguson added that while his company had received "some orders," it had been unable to fill any because of its inability to obtain the surplus properly from the government.

The state auditor said no one now has attempted to handle applications from political subdivisions and that no orders have been received from any public group. Hugh J. McTeague of the auditor's central office had been designated to handle public orders, but McTeague has been transferred to the state liquor department as auditor and has been relieved of all functions with the company, Ferguson said.

Ferguson confirmed that W. K. Bell of Springfield was the company's representative in handling private orders, which he asserted was strictly a mail order business.

BALL BEARING FIRMS DENY TRUST CHARGES

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, April 2 — Three individuals and six ball bearing companies pleaded innocent today to a federal indictment charging conspiracy to fix prices in violation of the Sherman anti-trust act.

Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed set May 6 as the deadline for filing of any motion by defendants and said they would not be tried until after the trial, tentatively set for next Oct. 28, of plumbing industry leaders on anti-trust charges.

The defendants were General Motors Corp., Detroit; SKF Industries Inc., Philadelphia; Marlin-Rockwell Corp., Jamestown, N. Y.; Fafnir Bearing Co., Inc., New Britain, Conn.; Federal Bearing Co., Inc., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Norma-Hoffman Bearing Corp., Stamford, Conn.; Fred G. Hughes of Bristol, Conn., general manager of the New Departure division of General Motors; Charles F. Stanley of New Britain, vice president and sales manager of Fafnir Bearing Co., and Howard Johnston of Jamestown, N. Y., sales manager of Marlin-Rockwell Corp.

The indictment, returned March 11, described the companies as the "big six" of the anti-friction bearing industry, producing about 95 per cent of all bearings manufactured in the United States. It was returned following more than a year's investigation by the federal grand jury here.

OHIO PUPILS SCORE IN CURRENT EVENTS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 8—Ohio junior and senior high school pupils, who were found a few months ago to be short on arithmetic, now have shown themselves to be long on what's going on around them during the war years.

Dr. Clyde V. Hissong, state education director, reported that 18,000 current affairs tests given in grades seven to twelve last December showed grades markedly higher than achieved by students taking 9,000 tests in 1939.

"While these results show progress," he said, "we must always work diligently for continued improvement. A satisfactory knowledge of current events offers a great opportunity for teachers and pupils to give practical meaning."

In other tests, not necessarily given to the same pupils, Dr. Hissong found last fall that many high school students were lacking in "fundamental tools of knowledge"—some were unable to work out arithmetic problems involving fractions, others were unable to describe such geometric forms as a circle.

The current affairs tests were prepared by Dr. Ray G. Good, state director of scholarship tests, and Carl H. Roberts of Athens high school and Ohio university.

Dr. Hissong said the percentages were "based on a scientific sampling totaling 3,915 pupils in 1939 and 7,670 in 1945 so selected to show a true cross-section for the entire state."

Russia Shows She Means Business

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 8 — Russia made it abundantly clear today that she expects the Iranian question to be withdrawn from the United Nations security council.

Informed foreign sources in Moscow predicted that this course would be followed, basing their reasoning on what appeared to be authenticated reports here that Iranian Premier Ahmed Qavam would recommend such a procedure.

Should the case be continued on the security council agenda, it was said, Russia would regard the action as "most unfriendly."

Russia Holds Edge for First 25 Years of Iran Oil Setup

By The Associated Press

TEHRAN, April 8—Russia will be the majority stockholder in the proposed Soviet-Iranian oil company for the first 25 years of its 50-year term, under an agreement to be presented to the Iranian parliament for approval.

Disclosing additional details of the agreement, announced in a Soviet-Iranian communique last Friday, Premier Ahmed Qavam told Iranian newsmen yesterday that Russia would control 51 per cent and Iran 49 per cent of the stock for the first 25 years.

At the same time, the premier revealed he had invited the "people of Azerbaijan" province, where a semi-autonomous government had been established in defiance of the Tehran government, to send representatives here for negotiations.

In response to a question as to whether these representatives would include followers of "Premier" Jafar Pishevari of the Azerbaijan regime, Qavam said that "discussions will be carried out with the people of Azerbaijan, and naturally they are included."

Iranian troops have been prevented in the past from entering Azerbaijan by the Red army. The communique Friday, however, recognized the Azerbaijan problem as an "internal" one for Iran to handle, and said that all Russian troops would be evacuated from Iran by May 6.

Qavam told newsmen that elections for a new parliament would be held immediately after the Russian withdrawal.

The premier said the oil agreement with Russia was not secret and that the text would be published soon.

Qavam said Russia would control 51 per cent and Iran 49 per cent of the stock for the first 25 years.

Translation of his statement showed the agreement provided for 50-50 control the second 25 years. One newspaper had quoted him as saying Iran would have 51 per cent the second 50 years.

STRIKE AT BUCYRUS PLANT UNCHANGED

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, April 8—The weekend brought little change in the five-day-old Swan Rubber Co. strike. A handful of pickets still patroled the gates to the building today and only office employes were allowed to enter.

Since last Wednesday at 11 p. m., when the strike was called, machinery at the plant, which manufactures rubber hose, tubing and small tires, has been idle and an estimated 400 employes have remained away from their jobs.

There were no reports today that negotiations were going on between the company and the United Rubber Workers (CIO), or that any joint meetings were planned. Only statement coming from the management since the strike began is one from M. G. Nussbaum, company president, claiming the company had been given no advance formal notice the strike was to take place.

Union officials also have refrained from making any statements regarding their stand, except that they are seeking a wage increase.

Peace Treaty Snags May Be Sidetracked

By The Associated Press

LONDON, April 8—Authoritative sources indicated today that the controversial problems which have deadlocked discussions of Europe's peace treaties might be abandoned until the proposed four-power meeting of foreign ministers in Paris April 25.

Declaring that neither Russia nor the western powers appeared willing to make concessions at present, these sources said that the foreign ministers' deputies, meeting in London, would confine their future discussions to technical details of the Italian and Balkan treaty drafts.

STRIKES

ers of the Republic Steel Corp. at Youngstown went back to work yesterday, agreeing to submit a dispute over work schedules through regular CIO-USA union grievance channels. This strike started March 30.

James C. Quinn, Youngstown district director of CIO-USA, reported all firms in the area had signed new contracts granting 18½ cents an hour increases, except the Lake City Malleable Co. at Ashtabula.

Shipyards Strike Looms As Official Hints Coal Action

By The Associated Press

A new strike threat arose today—among 72,000 CIO shipworkers—as a labor department official expressed belief "the government will do something this week" about the soft coal work stoppage.

John Green, CIO marine and shipbuilding workers president, announced filing of a 30-day strike notice in behalf of workers in 17 shipyards, which he said had refused to pay an 18 cents hourly pay raise recommended by the shipbuilding wage conference.

The labor department official, who asked anonymity, reported steel mills soon will begin to feel the full effect of the week-old strike of 400,000 bituminous miners.

Course Uncertain

What the government would, or could, do about it was a question since John L. Lewis, AFL United Mine Workers chieftain, has not asked a specific wage increase. So the question of conformity with the national wage-price policy has not yet arisen.

Meanwhile, one of the country's oldest strikes, that of 1,700 employes of the Yale and Towne Manufacturing Company's Philadelphia plant, had ended. The workers, members of the AFL machinists union, voted to accept a 12½ cents hourly raise and end their 149-day walkout.

At Akron, O., Mayor Charles E. Slusser threatened to take "immediate steps" to end a week-long walkout of 450 CIO bus and trolley drivers, who are demanding 32 cents an hour more pay. But the labor troubles of four other cities had eased.

In Detroit, buses and street cars started running again following a week old strike of 5,200 AFL transit workers. The workers accepted a 15 cents hourly raise from the municipally owned system.

A threatened light, power and transportation tieup which would have affected 1,000,000 Cincinnati area residents was averted. A union spokesman said 1,400 Cincinnati Gas and Electric Co. workers would stay on the job while wage negotiations continue.

Bus Strike to End

At Saginaw, Mich., a two-day strike of 82 CIO bus drivers and mechanics was scheduled to end at 2 p. m. today, with the city promising an investigation of bus safety standards. The union said it would seek arbitration of other grievances.

A 10 cents hourly raise was accepted by 400 AFL employes of the Scranton (Pa.) Transit Co., thus averting a strike set for today.

Across the country, meanwhile, 800,000 workers continued idle in labor disputes.

COUNTRY CLUB CADDY HOUSE BURGLARIZED

Merchandise Valued at $90 Is Stolen.

Break-ins both Saturday and Sunday nights at a Marion Country club caddy house were being investigated today by sheriff's deputies.

More than $90 in merchandise, including candy, chewing gum, golf balls and rain proof jackets were reported stolen, as well as $22 in cash from an envelope in one of the lockers.

The building was entered both times by removing a glass in a rear window, sheriff's deputies said.

Two other thefts were reported to sheriff's deputies Saturday, one on the Davis McElhaney farm five miles south of Marion and the other on the neighboring farm of W. L. Arnold. Two rolls of wire fence were taken from the McElhaney farm and five bushels of corn from a field on the Arnold farm.

try to keep itself in power by a party coalition in the next election following the election.

Japanese political circles also speculated that Ichiro Hatoyama, president of the liberal (conservative) party, might be disqualified because of a book he wrote in 1938 praising Hitler and Mussolini.

Liberals are accorded the best chance of winning the largest bloc of diet seats, although a majority for any party is doubtful.

There are 2,803 candidates for 468 seats among them 80 women. Liberals are conceded up to 150 seats.

PROSPECT COUNCIL EYES WATER, SEWAGE PROPOSAL

Plans To Be Discussed by Village Council Tonight.

A special meeting of Prospect council will be held tonight to discuss plans for a water and a sanitary sewage system for the town.

Harold P Seebach, president of the council said today he would call council members together to officially approve the $9 340 received from the federal works agency for construction of a $130 000 water system and a $132 480 sewage system Mr Seebach said he did not expect council to take any steps to set up a bond issue for Prospect voters until details of the water program had been worked out. Prospect authorities are hopeful the issue may be placed before voters in the general election.

Plans for the water system include mains, two wells an elevated storage tank a filter plant and other necessary equipment. The sewage system will include sewer lines a sewage treatment plant and equipment two lift stations and force mains.

Details of the program still are in a preliminary stage Mr Seebach said and will have to be worked out before a figure on the amount of a proposed bond issue can be determined

SCIENTISTS BLAMED FOR ATOMIC HYSTERIA

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

ATLANTIC CITY, April 8 — Bradley Dewey former rubber director today criticized some scientists who he said in the discussions of atomic energy created the impression that they have all the answers even in the field of politics

President of the American Chemical Society Col Dewey declared in an address prepared for delivery at the opening of the society's 109th meeting

We need to maintain our equilibrium as scientists and profess normal men amidst the babel of voices which has been mounting in volume since the atomic bombs went off

To a certain extent scientists have added to this confusion of tongues and some have succeeded in creating the impression that they have all the answers even in the field of politics national and international

In so doing some have forgotten that national leadership is only won by long self-sacrificing public service

Technical sessions of the meeting for which an attendance of 10 000 chemists chemical engineers and industrialists is scheduled will begin tomorrow

The one time chief of the nations wartime rubber program also said the policies of the country's selective service system resulted in a damaging and indefensible misuse of manpower especially of scientific manpower

He called upon the society to direct its efforts to the end that the common sense of the American people will not again permit a selective service system which lacks the courage to be selective"
